

Course Number

LAT-242-01

Course Description

This course will examine how ancient Roman authors wrote their own versions of ancient myths. We will read a selection of texts in Latin from Vergil's Georgics and Ovid's Fasti, Heroides, and Metamorphoses, among others. We will visit mythical landscapes, hear from gods and mortals, and review Latin grammar, too. As we read these texts, we will consider issues of power dynamics, status, and gender in Rome, as well as practice what it means to engage in critical translation.

Academic Term

22/FA

Instructor

Raucci, Stacie

Location & Meeting Time

Karp Hall-005+ T/TH 01:55PM-03:40PM LEC

Credits

1.00

Capacity

15

Total Students

10

Additional Information

<http://www.union.edu/Classics>

Common Curriculum

WAC

HUL

HUM

LCC

JCHF

Interdisciplinary Programs

Gender/Sexuality/Women's St

Academic Department

Classics

Field Of Study

Latin (LAT)