

Course Number

PHL-342-01

Course Description

Aristotle is one of the most influential philosophers in the Western world. His impact spans centuries, influencing ancient Greek and Roman thought, medieval Christian, Arabic, and Jewish thinkers, and even today's philosophers and intellectuals. In this class we will focus mostly on his contribution to metaphysics, philosophy of mind, epistemology, and ethics. What is the nature of reality? How do we come to have knowledge? What constitutes a good human life? These are just some of the questions that we will discuss in the course.

Academic Term

20/WI

Instructor

Scheiter, Krisanna

Location & Meeting Time

Lamont House-201 T/TH 01:55PM-03:40PM LEC

Petition

N

Credits

1.00

Capacity

15

Total Students

9

Additional Information

<http://www.union.edu/Philosophy>

Common Curriculum

HUM Arts & Humanities

Academic Department

Philosophy

Field Of Study

Philosophy (PHL)