Course Number ATH-125-01 Course Description This class allows the individual and the group to explore through intuitive creative ways a physical, emotional and spontaneous form of approaching theatre. This course prepares the performer for advanced training techniques by focusing attention on freeing the body to communicate. Emphasis will be placed on spatial awareness and control, physical characterization and developing performing skills in gestural relationships, kinesthetic response, tempo and character dynamics. Theatre games and a variety of improvisation methodologies will be used in the practice of performance discipline, risk taking and collaboration on stage. Academic Term 20/FA Instructor Wyatt, Randy Location & Meeting Time Yulman Theatre-THR M/W 03:05PM-04:45PM LEC Petition Ν Credits 1.00 Capacity 12 Total Students 0 Additional Information http://www.union.edu/academic_depts/theater_dance/ Common Curriculum HUM Arts & Humanities Academic Department Theatre & Dance Field Of Study Theater Arts (ATH)