

Course Number

HST-172-01

Course Description

Examines the political and social changes in Latin America as a result of the nineteenth and twentieth century reform and revolutionary movements, including the Unidad Popular government in Chile under Salvador Allende and its overthrow by General Pinochet and the subsequent dictatorial rule. The effect of the 1959 Cuban Revolution on Latin America; the revolutionary uprisings in Central America, in Chiapas, Mexico, and against the military government of Argentina form other key areas of examination. The course places special emphasis on the intersection of gender, race and class conflicts and movements, with particular attention to the role of emerging feminist movements.

Academic Term

20/FA

Instructor

McGrath, Elena

Location & Meeting Time

Synchronous Online-ONLI M/W/F 12:20PM-01:25PM LEC

Petition

N

Credits

1.00

Capacity

35

Total Students

17

Additional Information

<http://www.union.edu/History>

Common Curriculum

LCC Languages & Cultures

SOCS Social Science

Interdisciplinary Programs

Africana Studies

Latin American Studies

Gender/Sexuality/Women's St

Academic Department

History

Field Of Study

History (HST)