

Course Number

ATH-256-01

Course Description

We'll explore in this course some of the most entertaining, moving, and provocative theater the world has ever known. Focusing mainly on Shakespeare's comedies and histories, we'll discover characters who offer us complicated and engaging perspectives on topics such as love, magic, revenge, family relationships, outsiders, and political power. We will work together to appreciate both the nuances of Shakespeare's poetry and the excitement of his works in performance (whether on stage or screen).

Academic Term

22/SP

Instructor

Wareh, Patricia

Location & Meeting Time

Karp Hall-001+ T/TH 09:00AM-10:45AM LEC

Credits

1.00

Capacity

20

Total Students

15

Common Curriculum

HUL Literature

HUM Arts & Humanities

Academic Department

Theater

Field Of Study

Theater Arts (ATH)