

Course Number

ECO-235-01

Course Description

This course introduces the workings of Chinese economy since its economic reform in 1978. It is about the transformation of China's economy into a market economy with its special characteristics. It covers historical and institutional background, economic growth, economic fluctuations, macroeconomic policies, banking and financial markets, foreign trade, and foreign investment

Academic Term

22/SP

Instructor

Cheng, Dong

Location & Meeting Time

Lippman-101+ M/W/F 09:15AM-10:20AM LEC

Credits

1.00

Capacity

30

Total Students

15

Common Curriculum

SOCS Social Science

Academic Department

Economics

Field Of Study

Economics (ECO)