

Course Number

ISC-291-01

Course Description

This is the first part of a three-term practicum that introduces students to the teaching of college-level writing and the ideas and history that inform it. In addition to learning about composition theory and pedagogy, students will observe how writing is taught at the Union College Writing Center. Over the course of the three-term practicum, students will learn how to lead their own one-on-one peer review conferences and practice how to teach writing workshops in small groups.
