

Course Number

EGL-120-01

Course Description

This course introduces students to a variety of fictional forms. We consider what makes prose into literary fiction and develop an arsenal of key terms and ideas about narrative that will lay the groundwork either for further study or for lifelong learning and appreciation. Our primary sources range from oral stories to novels from around the globe to recent experiments in fiction, with particular emphasis on writers from underrepresented groups.

Academic Term

22/FA

Instructor

Lewin, Judith

Location & Meeting Time

Karp Hall-103+ M/W/F 10:30AM-11:35AM LEC

Credits

1.00

Capacity

16

Total Students

15

Additional Information

<http://www.union.edu/English>

Common Curriculum

HUM

WAC

HUL

Academic Department

English

Field Of Study

English (EGL)