

Course Number

EGL-111-01

Course Description

In this multi-genre creative writing course, we'll read and write poetry, fiction, and/or creative nonfiction, considering everything we read from a writer's perspective, asking what we can learn from it for our own writing. We'll read work by writers from diverse identities, perspectives, and aesthetic approaches; complete many writing exercises; and develop longer drafts outside of class. Students will gain editorial skills and will regularly share their writing with the group. This introductory course is appropriate for anyone who is curious about using language as a creative medium.

Academic Term

22/FA

Instructor

McAuliffe, Shena

Location & Meeting Time

Karp Hall-103+ M/W/F 08:00AM-09:05AM LEC

Credits

1.00

Capacity

15

Total Students

14

Additional Information

<http://www.union.edu/English>

Common Curriculum

HUL

WAC

HUM

JCAD

JLIT

Academic Department

English

Field Of Study

English (EGL)