

Course Number

ATH-150-01

Course Description

This course is based on the close examination of a particular period or theme of multidisciplinary artistic production that will offer students an immersion into important developments in performative expressions. This course explores dynamic movements in the artistic avant-garde, its historical background, and its principal creators in theatre, dance and associated performing arts, through discussions, lectures, studio work, and collaborative creation. The resulting collaboration will be produced and performed at Yulman Theatre.
