

Course Number

HST-225-01

Course Description

This course aims to give students the knowledge and the tools to think critically about how history has shaped the present state of the earth and human relationships with it. It focuses on the history of man's interaction with nature on the North American continent, with a particular focus on the area that would become the United States, from precolonial times until the present.

Academic Term

21/FA

Instructor

Morris, Andrew

Location & Meeting Time

Lippman-101+ M/W 03:05PM-04:45PM LEC

Credits

1.00

Capacity

25

Total Students

26

Additional Information

<http://www.union.edu/History>

Common Curriculum

SOCS Social Science

Interdisciplinary Programs

American Studies

Environmental Science & Policy

Academic Department

History

Field Of Study

History (HST)