

Course Number

ATH-112-01

Course Description

Designed to engage the aspiring actor in developing performance power, technique, and discipline, including self-discovery, in-depth character exploration, and textual analysis. Understanding what goes into actions, objectives, and given circumstances will be part of the process of beginning monologue and scene work. Appreciation of theatre as a profession through learning how to prepare and see other performances. It will require an open heart and mind in order to have the opportunity to take risks, challenge oneself, and be creative.

Academic Term

21/FA

Instructor

Fuller, Marcus

Location & Meeting Time

Yulman Theatre-THR M/W/F 11:45AM-12:50PM LEC

Credits

1.00

Capacity

16

Total Students

13

Common Curriculum

HUM Arts & Humanities

Academic Department

Theatre & Dance

Field Of Study

Theater Arts (ATH)